Scoring Inquiry:

Please note that my rating should be 1.074. I would be grateful if you could update the result please and also the rating for this coming Saturday. I see this should have been applied since 03/07, but I have only been in a few races and it would have made no difference to the results. I am sorry if this is my fault but I only thought of checking my rating was correct when I was beaten by 1 second. A lot of race organisers don't require certs now as they seem to get the ratings directly from RORC, so I am not sure how DBSC currently works. I certainly think before that a cert had to be sent in, so again sorry if I messed up here. Thanks in advance, best regards, Chris

Response:

Hi Chris, that's updated. The scoring program does pick up the IRC values at the beginning of the season, but doesn't automatically update them during the season if there are any changes. Main issue is the number of boat sailing with secondary certs, so the program will always have a number of boats with values different to their primary cert. Hence all updates during the season are manual.
