Scoring Inquiry:

I was flagged for a breach of rule 42 and disqualified after completing a turn. While I was completing my turns after making it extremely clear that I was about to complete them, the jury boat crashed into me and after my verbal protesting told me I'd "make it back up". After my first turn the jury dropped the yellow flag and so I was under the impression my penalty had been completed. After looking at the jury for confirmation that my penalty was completed no protest was made by them to the amount of turns I did so I continued my race. Once in land I checked the results at around 6:30 and my scores were an 8 and 10. Half an hour later my results were changed to 8 and dsq. A 29er on the other course broke the same rule as me with the same description, did one turn and was allowed race with no further punishment. I don't understand why I've been penalized so harshly and would like to know why.
